

Good job, Patricio!! It shows you've been working hard! Here I give you some suggestions and questions for you to think about (you don't have to answer them or follow them; they could help you improve your draft)

Some general comments first:

>> Keep the name of the institutions in their original language, don't translate them.

>> Grammar mistakes are coloured in yellow

Dudas:

-Estaria bien cuidado del ambiente como care of enviroment? yes, care of the environment

-Cuando hablo sobre el fortalecimiento de mis habilidades tengo 2 maneras de hacer que exhibo en estos 2 borradores no se cual esta bien, o en todo caso cual seria mejor —> I've corrected some parts from the first version that you can incorporate to the second version. I think the second one looks more organised and most ideas are better expressed.

-Dudo sobre como seria el cierre siento que en los ejemplos es muy espontaneo, si bien tiene que ser muy breve y consiso

If it helps, revise the sample elevator pitches from the material to look for ideas to end your pitch.

Think of an effective way that you want your interlocutor to remember you.

-En terminos generales como estan ambos borradores? me recomendas agregar algun punto mas? Es poco con respecto a la informacion que doy sobre mi?

Don't forget the elevator pitch can't be so long. So you can't include everything! Writing an elevator pitch isn't easy, you've done a great job so far. Don't worry if you need to revise both versions and create one. Even after this course, in the future you will probably need to change it again!

Hi, my name is Patricio Sosa. I'm currently a sophomore student —> this part is OK (by the way, remember that sophomore is an American term) attending BA University in Buenos Aires, Argentina. —> suggestion: change this phrase and say what you're studying and where, of course following the models from the class 10 material (education section)

In college I plan on to majoring in development of applications (apps) app development, in fact I working (conjugation) on a personal project to develop an app about care of enviroment (cuidado del ambiente) as a subject (what do you mean by "as a subject"?). Over the last year I've been strengthening my skills on Data Structs (structures?) and expanding my knowledge about programming language....

~~I hope when~~ After I graduate, I would like to ~~can~~ manage my own project team developing computer applications for simple business solutions...

Hi, my name is Patricio Sosa. I'm currently a sophomore student attending BA University in Buenos Aires, Argentina. In college I plan on majoring in development of applications (apps) (corrected above)

Over the last year I've been strengthening my skills on Data Structs (structures?) and expanding my knowledge about programming language in fact I working on a personal project to develop an app about care of environment (cuidado del ambiente) as a subject... (what do you mean by "as a subject"? —> the ideas here are great, but this is a very long sentence. Solo necesitarías dividirla en al menos dos oraciones. Si tuvieras que decir todo esto oralmente no te quedaría aire ;-)

Next summer I'm hoping (*) to get an internship to learning more about optimization of applications....

I enjoy developing computer applications for simple business solutions. I hope to become a computer programmer when I graduate and manage a project team —> sí, esta versión está mejor

(*) hope to get ('hope' is a stative verb, you cannot use it in the continuous tenses) // I'm looking forward to getting (same meaning, different expression)

You can show your new version of the pitch later to your group to see what they think about it. You will also need to practise it to see if the timing is OK and if you need to make more adjustments. Next week I'm going to share another rubric to complete when you listen to your classmates' speeches.
